

Seminar on Neuronal correlates of stuttering. What can we learn about the brain?

Escuela Universitaria de Ingeniería
Técnica de Telecomunicación

Universidad Politécnica de Madrid

Prof. Katrin Neumann M.D.

Prof. Katrin Neumann chairs the Dept. of Phoniatrics and Pediatric Audiology at the University of Frankfurt/Main, Germany. Furthermore, she has is visiting professor at the University of Utrecht where she works as a lecturer in the master´s curriculum of Logopedic Sciences.

Her research focuses include the examination of speech, language, and hearing processes with neuroimaging techniques, nature and treatment of stuttering, physiology and pathology of the professional voice, acoustic signal processing of the voice, speech/language and communication development in children who are hard of hearing, audiometric tests, cochlear implants in children, hearing disorders in persons with intellectual disabilities, implementation of a universal newborn hearing screening and of a universal language screening for children

Timetable

Friday 3th December: 15:30h - 17:30h

Room

3004

Audience and Inscriptions

This seminar is mainly aimed to Master students and 3rd level students.

Inscriptions should be done at the students' secretary (6104) or at the event room.

Credits

The students attending the event will get 1 credit. Master students should perform an additional home work.